

IEF entrepreneurship master class held at Gangtok

SE Report

GANGTOK, August 29: India's leading collaborative ecosystem for small-scale entrepreneurs IEF Entrepreneurship Foundation organised its first entrepreneurship master class in partnership with the local entrepreneur community StartUp Harbour at Gangtok today.

The programme began with an in-depth discussion on building a robust entrepreneurship ecosystem in the State by Lok Sabha MP P.D. Rai. The entrepreneurs were felicitated for successfully completing the essential module of the IEF masterclass by entrepreneur Bjorn Noel Deniese and Bhairavi Jani, chairperson and founder of IEF Entrepreneurship Foundation. IEF faculty members Alok Divatia and KN Srinivasan were also present, a press release informs.

Jani said, the Indian economy is driven by millions of small scale enterprises that play a pivotal role in GDP growth, job creation and building a sustainable livelihood for people locally. "We heard about the huge potential and aspirations of entrepreneurs of Sikkim and decided to come here to support their journey of enterprise and help them in realising their dreams," she added.

Co-founder of StartUp

Harbour, Rewaj Chhetri, said, "the future development of Sikkim lies in the hands of entrepreneurs. Being a skilled entrepreneur is a must to build a successful venture. We at Startup Harbour are collectively working to build an ecosystem here in Sikkim to make startups sustain and grow."
